FOREWORD

"Hurry On Down" tells the story of the transformation of the tax collector, Zacchaeus, when Jesus broke into his life. The Scriptures do not detail just how that change took place. But it's enough to know that Jesus wrought the change according to who, when and where Zacchaeus was, just as he relates to us today according to who we are in our contemporary circumstances. It is my hope that this re-telling of Zacchaeus' story may help set the stage for that kind of thing to happen in the lives of those who hear it -- and particularly in the lives of the children who present it! The story of Zacchaeus is found in Luke 19:1-10. The Today's English Version of the New Testament was used as the basis of "Hurry On Down." If the musical is presented in the context of a congregational worship service, you may want to read that passage of Scripture in preparation for hearing it sung.

"Hurry On Down" is dedicated to my wife, Helen, who has encouraged me greatly through the years in these endeavors at creative writing, and who has taught me much about how children learn and grow.

My thanks go to her and our sons, Steve and Dave, and to Shirley and Sue Jeambey, all of whom helped in putting together a trial production tape of "Hurry On Down," which proved to be very useful.

My special gratitude goes to the Sunshine Singers of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, Lincoln, Nebraska, to Linda Volland, their very capable director, and to their accompanist, Betty Whitney, for premiering "Hurry On Down" with all the helpful refining that brought it about. Thanks also to the Children's Choir of First United Methodist Church, Cozad, Nebraska, and their pastor-director, Rev. Ron Roemmich, for giving it a second trial run. And I have appreciated, as always, the helpful guiding hand and support of the Agape crew along the way.

CAST

Zacchaeus (pronounce "Zack-KEE-us")

Jesus

Zacchaeus' wife, children, servants, and others of his household

Choir/Citizens of Jericho

Soloists and one-liners as indicated or desired

Dancers (optional)

The Narrators (These can be combined for fewer persons, or spread out to include more. But they'll seem more real if you invest each of them with specific personality characteristics, such as:)

Steve: Enthusiastic, friendly -- a leader

Beth: Practical, initiator, wants everyone to be included

Paul: Your walking Bible encyclopedia -- but not a know-it-all

Anna: Bubbly, dramatic, with a flair for acting things out

Dan: The joker in the crowd -- but interested in what's going on

Martha: the poet -- introspective, with quiet wisdom and a way with words

INSTRUMENTS

Piano, rather than organ (could add organ for Nos. 7, 10 & 12)

Guitar (chords are marked)

Drums would help on the rhythm pieces (other rhythm instruments could be effective, if used judiciously: tambourines, blocks, sticks, castanets, bongos)

Special parts are included for:

B♭ trumpet; No. 4

Violin; No. 7

Descant instrument (flute, recorder, harmonica, violin, organ stop); No. 12

Some kind of funny noisemaker for No. 9

Add others as available in your group, at your discretion: for example, a harp could be nice for No. 8, accordion with Nos. 1 & 12.

A full accompaniment tape is available from the publishers.

PROPS

A tree, off to one side, for Zacchaeus to climb (ladder, stool, chair, pulpit, decorated with green branches and leaves).

Small table (not set) for Zacchaeus' home. (It may be put in place during the introduction to No. 8, and removed for No. 11.)

Can be done with no costuming or in choir robes. "Bible-time" costumes would add color and interest. Make Zacchaeus and Jesus stand out.

SOUND SYSTEM, LIGHTING, CHOREOGRAPHY

At your discretion, with what's available. Microphone(s) would help. (Some dancing could be especially nice with No. 6, beginning at Measure 24.)

PERFORMANCE HINTS

Nos. 1 & 13 are the "bookends" for the story, and should be sung straightforwardly to the audience.
Set an affirmative mood!

No. 2: The words here should be spoken in a natural speaking rhythm.

No. 4: Could be lifted as a Palm Sunday anthem -- perhaps as a "teaser" for the whole performance.

No. 5: If you want to divide boys from girls in one song, this would work well. Stanzas 1 & 2 can be rather funny, with a switch to poignancy on the 3rd stanza.

No. 6: This can be your big "production" number -- the title piece. Make it a real celebration of Jesus' coming.

No. 7: While the thoughts are Zacchaeus', allowing another person to sing the words while Zacchaeus thinks them would spread the solos around. An interpretive dance could add a nice touch here.

No. 8: Makes a nice table grace (in two-part canon form) on its own.

No. 9: Ham this one up all you want, for a touch of humor.

No. 10: Is Zacchaeus' act of confession. Make it serious and meaningful, with lots of expression. Not too fast.

No. 11: Is the musical climax.

No. 12: Is the "message song."

No. 13: Is a kind of sending-out benediction.

As a rule, let the choir members sit during the Narrator's conversations.

REMEMBER: What happens during the preparation of a children's musical is probably more important than what happens during the performance. Make it a good experience for all!

- BETH: I didn't remember that Zacchaeus lived in Jericho. Lots of things happened in Jericho, didn't they?
- STEVE: When you're talking about the oldest city in the world, I guess you could expect that lots of things would have happened there over the past nine thousand years!
- BETH: But really special things-in the Bible, I mean--that happened in and around Jericho.
- PAUL: Sure, Steve, like Joshua fighting the Battle of Jericho, when the walls came tumbling down. That was when the Israelites were settling the Promised Land, after forty years of wandering in the wilderness.
- MARTHA: And Jericho was where Elisha changed the brackish water into pure water.
- DAN: What's "brackish"?
- STEVE: What's it sound like?
- DAN: Not good.
- OTHERS: Right!
- ANNA: (with a dramatic flair) And wasn't the Good Samaritan on the road from Jerusalem to Jericho when the thieves robbed him and beat him up? (Imagines fighting.)
- PAUL: Right road, wrong character. It was the Good Samaritan who came along and helped the man who was robbed on the way to Jericho.
- BETH: And like the song said, it was in Jericho that Jesus saw Zacchaeus up in a tree. So that's where our story begins today (night).
- DAN: Up a tree?
- BETH: No, not yet, Dan! But in Jericho. Jesus was on his way to Jerusalem when he went through Jericho and ran into--good old Zacchaeus!
- PAUL: Bad old Zacchaeus, you mean. He was a traitor. He collected taxes from his own people to send to the Roman rulers. He was a crooked tax collector, at that. He probably even cheated his friends.
- STEVE: What friends? I didn't think Zacchaeus had any friends.

The musical score consists of six staves of music for voice and piano. The vocal part is in soprano range, and the piano part includes bass and harmonic support. The score is in common time, mostly in G minor (indicated by a 'Gm' key signature), with some changes in key signature (C major, A major, D major, G/D, A flat/B flat major, and F major). The vocal line features a mix of sustained notes and rhythmic patterns, often marked with 'x' or 'z'. The piano part provides harmonic and rhythmic support, with bass lines and chords. The lyrics are spoken over the music, with specific instructions for the piano part (Tacet) at measure 5.

ANNA: You know where Zacchaeus went, so he could see over the crowd. . . (points upward)

DAN: Up a tree. (Anna nods.)

PAUL: Some people say that one reason Zacchaeus may have climbed the tree was his unpopularity. It was safer up there, out of the crowd.

ANNA: Anyway, he wanted to be up where he could see Jesus when he came by. (While singing "When you're too short to see," some of the taller choir members stand in a row facing the congregation, as if watching a parade. Zacchaeus moves along behind them, jumping up, head bobbing into view as he tries to see over them. At end of first stanza, he climbs the sycamore tree.)

- ANNA: Of all people, the ornery old tax collector!
- STEVE: I'll say! They probably thought Jesus would scold Zacchaeus for all the things he'd done. Instead, he asked to come to supper at his house!
- MARTHA: The people were surprised? How do you think Zacchaeus must have felt when Jesus called him by name--with all those folks standing around, staring at him?
- DAN: Yeah, right up there in plain sight on that sycamore branch!
- MARTHA: I can just imagine what must have been going through his mind.

("I Only Meant to See Him" can be sung by Zacchaeus, or by Martha, or others. Whether or not he sings the song, Zacchaeus should be highlighted as he "wonders" the words being sung.)

STEVE: What a day for Zacchaeus!

ANNA: (hands out front, trembling) What a day for Jericho! I wonder what people thought about the changes in Zacchaeus' life?

MARTHA: I'll bet they could hardly believe it! I can just see those walls of hatred and fear come tumbling down!

BETH That's a neat way to say it, Martha. Of all that's happened in Jericho, I don't think anything could be better than what happened to Zacchaeus.

ANNA: (gesturing grandly) Or more dramatic!

DAN: Don't over-do it, Anna. But you're right.

BETH: I wonder why Jesus happened to be going through Jericho that day?

STEVE: I guess it was just on the way from Galilee to Jerusalem. That seems to have been a main route in those days.

PAUL: Maybe they went that way to get a drink and fill their water jugs at the springs in Jericho. Thousands of people have done that through the years. That's probably why Jericho's been there so long, you know-because the springs have kept running all that time.

DAN: Sure, Paul. Remember, that's where Elisha turned the, uh, brackish water good.

OTHERS: Right!

BETH: Yes, Dan. (Pauses, then adds thoughtfully:) And that's where Jesus turned Zacchaeus' life good.

STEVE: Great, Beth. I like that.

MARTHA: I was just thinking...That water has been flowing there through all of history, just waiting to be used for drinking, or watering the dry land. In a way, that's like God's love has always been flowing through history, waiting for people to accept it, to drink it in...

BETH: Zacchaeus accepted it when he invited Jesus into his home--and it changed his whole life. (Music in)

STEVE: It can happen to us, when we let Christ come into our own lives, and welcome him.
